

Workshops for Adult Educators

“How To Ensure Cultural Competency Through Training Strategies to Support Families with Children with Disabilities”

Presenter – Ginger Kwan

Workshop Description

This interactive workshop is intended for adult educators who are interested in increasing their knowledge, skills, and competence on infusing diverse cultural perspectives into their teachings on supporting families with children with disabilities from the diverse cultural backgrounds. The workshop provides an in depth discussion on how culture influences families' perspectives on their children's disabilities and how a child's disability impacts his/her family. The discussion will enrich and broaden participants' knowledge and understanding on the cultures of disabilities. Using the essential principles of family centered practices, assessment tools, and culturally related resources provided as a guideline, participants will develop the strategies on adapting and modifying their lectures, presentations, training, and technical assistance.

Participants are encouraged to bring teaching materials from one of their workshops or classes for group discussion.
